

MIXED GENDER DISPENSATION PROCEDURE

BACKGROUND

Rugby Australia has created this procedure to ensure the suitability of mixed gender teams and the circumstances where girls should be permitted to play contact Rugby with boys. It takes into consideration the differences in physical and mental development of boys and girls at the various stages of progression through the established age-grade pathways within Australia.

The starting position for mixed gender participation is as follows:

Boys and girls may participate in mixed gender rugby up to and including the calendar year (1 January - 31 December) in which they turn 12 years of age.

Whilst boys and girls may often prefer to play sports with those of the same gender, Rugby Australia supports boys and girls playing rugby together up to and including the year in which they turn 12 years of age.

Rugby Australia is constantly seeking to grow the number of girls' competitions throughout Australia so that both boys and girls have access to regular rugby. However, where that opportunity for regular rugby is not available, Rugby Australia wishes to ensure that these girls are afforded the opportunity to continue their participation in our game, so long as it is safe for them to do so.

WITH DISPENSATION – WHERE CAN A PLAYER PLAY?

The dispensation procedure sets out a step-by-step process to enable mixed gender participation as follows:

A girl over 12 years of age may, subject to meeting the requirements of the dispensation procedure, play in a mixed gender team in the Under 13, Under 14 and Under 15 age groups where no other opportunity to play regular Rugby exists. A girl can participate in a mixed gender team in the calendar year up to and including the year in which they turn 15 (1 January to 31 December).

Please note: Ad hoc tournaments and development programs should not be viewed as 'regular' Rugby competitions and should therefore not prevent an application being made for Mixed Gender Dispensation. When assessing whether or not a player has regular Rugby opportunities, consideration should also be given to the player's preferred format of Rugby.

HOW DO THE 'SIZE FOR AGE' GUIDELINES APPLY?

Rugby Australia has published its 'Size for Age' Guidelines that contain mandatory assessment requirements for male and female age-grade players. These guidelines require players in the age groups Under 10 to Under 15 that fall above or below certain height and weight parameters for each age group to undergo an assessment by an Independent Qualified Assessing Coach to determine the child's appropriate playing age-grade.

The Mixed Gender Dispensation Procedure already requires mandatory assessment by an Independent Qualified Assessing Coach for all applicants. However, the height and weight parameters set out in the 'Size for Age' Guidelines should be used as a reference tool when undertaking the assessment in order to determine the physical development of the player relative to the norms of the age group and the competition that is most appropriate.

An Independent* Qualified Assessing Coach must hold a minimum Level 2 Coach Accreditation, current Smart Rugby qualification and have completed the Assessing Coach Module within the Rugby Learning Centre.

The following definition of an Independent Coach outlines the minimum criteria that must be met to conduct an official player assessment. Member Unions and Competition Managers are permitted to add criteria that is appropriate for their jurisdiction.

A Qualified Assessing Coach is defined as being Independent if they are not registered to the same Club or School as the player being assessed.*

OR

In the event a Qualified Assessing Coach is registered with the same Club or School as the player being assessed they must meet the following criteria to be defined as Independent.

- Do not coach the specific age-grade of the player being assessed.
- Do not coach the specific age-grade that the player participated in the previous season, if applicable.
- Do not coach the specific age-grade that the player wishes to participate in, if applicable.

RESPONSIBILITIES

It is the responsibility of all Coaches, Club Officials, Unions and Affiliates and Parents / Guardians to follow this procedure when seeking opportunities for young players to participate in age-grade rugby in order to ensure inclusion whilst having primary regard for the Rugby Australia Safety Policy.

Please note that intentional or reckless disregard for the Rugby Australia Safety Policy, Rugby Australia Participation Policy or this procedure may result in disciplinary action under the Rugby Australia Code of Conduct.

Each State / Territory Union must designate an appropriate person(s) to administer this procedure within a competition. The competition manager will generally be the person responsible; however, the State / Territory Union may nominate an alternate person and/or convene an advisory panel or group of subject matter experts to provide recommendations and/or make decisions on the application of this procedure.

This procedure is applicable to all registered players participating in an age-grade competitions except for the non-contact form of Rugby, Touch7s.
